MODULE 3, PART 1

What does geographic analysis add to stories?
Except Paris has 927 departing flights per day. Kinshasa has only 13.

These are two of the world’s megacities, both with 13 million people.
Before the exodus
Kutupalong is the largest official refugee camp in the Cox's Bazar area. It was home to 13,901 refugees before the latest surge. Another 99,705 people lived in two nearby makeshift camps. In this satellite image, taken May 26, the green, hilly areas around the camps are relatively unoccupied.
Kutupalong

This satellite image shows the contrast between the formal camp and expansion areas. The ramshackle huts in the formal camp have been replaced in recent years by new shelters with more space between dwellings. The red, blue, black and white colours reflect the cheap plastic sheeting available to make shelters at the time.
Examples of problem areas

A Reuters photographer visited several sites in the extension areas where latrines and water wells were located close together. Latrines should be at least 30 metres from a water source, according to sanitation guidelines.
Moore underperformed in the northern part of the state, where he got 54 percent of the votes to Romney’s 69 percent.

Moore did better than Romney in only one county, Macon, by just 10 votes.

Moore got closest to Romney in the Black Belt but less than 10 percent of Republican votes come from here.

Each dot represents 500 people.